One Man's Family Writer Is Refugee From Smog Belt; Harlan Ware Is Settling, With Own Family, Here

BY BETH INGELS

Another refugee from Southern California's menacing smog and a most welcome addition to Carmel's group of active writers is Harlan Ware, novelist, short story author and radio script writer.

In the latter capacity he is responsible for the even-numbered books of famed One Man's Family, with Mike Raffetto doing the other half. The present odd-numbered series runs until December 12, and from that date on for the next six-week period of daily shows Ware's scripts will be heard.

The show and its characters were originated by Carleton E. Morse, but he now devotes his entire time to the television show of the same name. Radio credit is given to Raffetto on the daily show and Ware has been doing his half anonymously, despite numerous offers to have his name used. "I've refused," he said, "because" (Continued on Page Twelve)

2 Years' Building Money Allocated To Woods; H. S. River, Sunset Go Begging

The school board voted Wednesday night to engage an architect to draw up plans for four classrooms and an office at Woods School, and decided on Thomas Elston as the architect.

Mrs. Howard Clark suggested that architects be invited to bid on the job but other board members pointed out that Elston has been architect for the River School and the multiple use room at Woods, which had been built economically.

Superintendent Stuart Mitchell recommended two rooms at Woods, including toilet and heat facilities for the new wing, estimated cost, $34,000, playground expansion at Woods, $10,000 and equipment for the two rooms, $3,000, a total of $47,000. This year's budget for capital outlay provides for $57,000 which will be available January 1.

Mitchell suggested that the remainder be used to modernize Sunset.

Board Chairman J. O. Handley argued that it would be more economical to authorize plans for two years' construction on this year's budget and next year's expectations, get bids from contractors for four rooms at Woods instead of two, and build all four, "even if two remain a shell until they are needed." This allocated the major part of the construction budget to Woods for two years. Mrs. Howard Clark pointed out that they had been promising John Farr a music room at the high school for six years. A member of the audience asked what was going to be done about the leaky roof at Sunset, "Wait until it disintegrates?"

Handley said the architect's estimates on the cost of constructing class rooms at Woods was

Sanitary Board Holds Up Social Security Petition To Study State Retirement

The Carmel Sanitary Board deferred action on the employees' request for social security Monday night until the board members and employees could be informed on the state retirement plan.

Last week, six sanitary district employees signed a petition to the board asking for social security, but when Inspector Floyd Adams was asked to sign, he stated that since he had advocated the state retirement plan for Carmel city employees, he did not feel he would be justified in signing a petition for social security for sanitary district employees until both the employees and the board members had informed themselves on other plans available, including state retirement insurance, which the voters have just approved for the Carmel city employees.

He was asked to appear before the board at its meeting Monday night when he gave a resume of the benefits and an estimate of the costs to the district of the state plan for the sanitary employees (very roughly, about $20,000 total for past service cost, which would be distributed over a 25-year period, for a yearly cost of about $1000; and current service costs of about the same). The voters have just approved expenditure of about $21,739.27 yearly for the city employees' pension.

The sanitary district has been lowering its tax rate consistently each year for several years. There is no bonded indebtedness. The approximate $2000 yearly cost could be carried in the budget.

Adams, who would not be eligible for state plan with the sanitary district, since he is less than a half-time employee, told the board that a state representative would be in Carmel in the next few weeks to advise city employees on details of entering the state plan—the city employees are still to hold elections in groups to determine if any of the departments do not wish to join. The sanitary board members decided to avail themselves of the services of the state representatives to inform themselves and have their employees informed on the state plan.

BUNDLES FOR PEACE

A great pile of relief bundles, collected by women's church organizations during the past month, occupied the stage of the Women's Auxiliary room at All Saints' Church on Friday morning when the United Church Women met for World Community Day.

higher than the bids would likely be, so there would probably be money left over for other things; and the tax revenue would be greater next year.

Two months ago the board had thought that the new class rooms should be built at River School, but after school started it was found that there are more prospective fourth graders living north of Ocean Avenue than south, hence Mitchell's recommendation for building the two class rooms at Woods instead of at (Continued on Page Four)

The bundles were dedicated by the Reverend Angus Dun, Jr., minister of the church, and will be transported to the warehouse of Church World Service in Oakland. This organization ships bundles overseas and distributes them to the needy.

PADRE GRIDDERS WIN PAIR AT GONZALES

In a pair of football games replete with thrills occasioned by long touchdown runs, sparkling pass plays, and high-spirited competition, the Red & Gray gang from Carmel High outscored the dangerous gridders from Gonzales to post two well-earned victories last Friday night. Carmel's junior-varsity put on a real scorefest with the Little Spartans before capping the nod, 26 to 20. The Padre varsity broke a 14-14 deadlock in the final period to win going away, 26 to 14.

A tremendous team effort by the Carmel lads saw them give out with their top performance of the season as they put on a solid exhibition of blocking, tackling, and coordinated play. Taking over after the opening kickoff, the Padre varsity moved to a quick touchdown as Don Rowe bolted for a 25-yarder to the Spartan 14 where Clyde Klaumann slanted off the tackle slot for the score. Paul Fratessa's conversion was on the mark and the Padres were in front, 7 to 0. The jubilant Carmel rooters didn't have too long to contemplate their lead as the Spartans caught up on the following kickoff. A nifty reverse play sprung Don Harvick, swift Gonzales halfback, for an 80-yard touchdown gallop which completely baffled the Padre defense. Great faking on the part of the dark-clad Spartan backs made the trip mighty easy for the all-league Gonzales halfback. An accurate placement kick brought the Spartans to even terms with the Padres. Stung by the lightning-fast touchdown, Carmel came back with a surging rush to score on the next series of downs as West Whittaker powered through left-tackle for the six-pointer. Crunching blocks by Bill McCormack,

Pat Erwin, and George Wightman cleared the path for the slippery left halfback. Automatic Paul Fratessa toed the extra point and the Padres were in front 14-7 and still in the first quarter. The Padres missed a pair of scoring chances in the second period as they moved to the Gonzales five-yard line on one occasion and had the clock run out on them when they were two yards from a touchdown at the end of the half.

Gonzales came back with one of the prettiest plays of the night to knot the count in the third quarter as a double lateral clicked for a 60-yard touchdown. Carmel went to the front again early in the fourth quarter when Don Rowe scampered 35 yards for the go-ahead score. With the defensive unit of Jon Menand, Ted Ledbetter, Gene Gawain, Pat Erwin, Merle Pitman, Dick Jennings, Jon Chase, Bill McCormack, Bill Powell, Bob Alvarez, and Dick Ogden putting tremendous pressure on the Spartans, Carmel took over on the Gonzales 25-yard line late in the final period and moved to another score as West Whittaker bolted through an Erwin-Danelz blocking lane to rack up the 26th point.

Due to the excellent passing of Paul Fratessa and Bill McCormack, the Carmel overhead game clicked for consistent gains and opened up the stubborn Gonzales defense so the quick-hitting Carmel backs could scamper for long gainers when they shoved through the Spartan line.

Carmel's Little Padres were stung by two quick touchdowns by the Little Spartans before they settled down and took command of the situation. The speedy Gonzales backs darted through, around and over the Padrecitos in the first three minutes to post 13 points on the very bright scoreboard. Realizing they had a real fight on their hands, the Little Padres took the next kickoff and marched 70 yards in 8 plays to make it 13-7. A 12-yard blast through left tackle by Pierre Olivie climaxed the first Padrecitos scoring drive. Key blocks by David Gray and Bob Leidig paved the way for Olivie's touchdown run. With Charley Dawson at the controls again, the Padrecitos went for another six-pointer in the second period when Mervyn Sutton latched onto a Dawson aerial for a 30-yard scoring play. Gary Nielsen put the Little Padres ahead when he circled left end on a pitchout play to score from 14 yards out.

The second half saw both teams hit the scoreboard once as Gonzales drove 45 yards to a td and Carmel ate up a big chunk of ground as Pierre Olivie rambled 75 yards through the middle to set up a score registered by Captain John Zellhoefer. Behind, 26 to 20, the Little Spartans nearly pulled the game out of the fire in the final seconds as a desperation pass just barely missed on the Carmel 2-yard line.

As in the varsity clash, the jun-

The Needler

By Beth

Local gal whose home faces on Scenic was staring pensively out of her window the other day when she was suddenly startled out of her introspective mood. A large, glass-dome, sightseeing bus went slowly past, loaded to capacity, and on the side of the bus was printed "Chinatown Tour." Probably travelling on the theory that the longest way round is the shortest way back—to Shanghai Lil's.

Most welcome was the postcard received the other day from Gene Bartlett, who is now with the Army in Frankfurt on the Main. Gene, it will be remembered, took part in the Bach Festival and received praise here for his excellent baritone voice. He sang at Carmel Mission, as well, and also at a number of private gatherings. He writes that he is "enjoying this beautiful city, with its music and art and fine old buildings." He has been there since September and will probably remain for two years. While here he was with the Army Language School.

See page Seven of the Pine Cone for Rosalind Wall's review.

Have been involved in some heated controversy about the coconut and chicken recipe I ran in this column a couple of weeks ago. "How could one coconut be large enough to hold a quartered chicken?" I was asked. Well, if Papa Coppa could do it, I am sure some of our ingenious cooks could. All I suggest is—get a smaller chicken and a larger coconut. Or a lovely bunch of same.

Heard about a Pebble Beach poodle character who makes a trip into town two or three times a week, whenever the fancy strikes him, and makes calls upon people he knows, butchers and grocers and even dress shop owners. These pals of his are on to him though, and they follow the request of the wandering canine's owner. They call a cab—"Pick up a poodle at the corner of such and such"—the dog rides home in style and then treats his mistress as though she were the one who had run away.

This week's heavy rainfall reminded me of the time, about four years back, when there was a sudden cloudburst after several days of rain, and many of the stores along Dolores, including the Pine Cone, were flooded. Your Needler wrote the storm story by flickering candle light, ankle deep in water, with old mats and for-

Douglas Graham Has Buick Agency

Douglas Graham, formerly of Portland, is the new owner of the Buick agency at Del Monte and Washington streets in Monterey. It is now called the Graham Buick Company. The firm was formerly the Peninsula Auto Company, with Cliff Jones at the head.

Born and raised in the Oregon city, he left there to enter Stanford but interrupted his studies to join the Navy during World War II, coming back to graduate in 1949. Since graduating, he worked with Matson Navigation in San Francisco until he left to join his father in the Buick agency in Portland. He later was district manager of the Buick Motor Division of General Motors in Sacramento, coming to the Peninsula from there. He is a golf enthusiast and hopes to be able to continue improving his game on the local courses.

Laurel Reynolds Audubon Speaker

The Second Audubon Screen Tour will be presented by Laurel Reynolds of Piedmont, California, November 19 at Sunset auditorium. Ever since she could remember, Mrs. Reynolds has been interested in birds and flowers, and her life has been closely associated with nature. She married a physician, who was an ornithologist, and her two children also have been a great help in her work.

She has been editor of The Gull, publication of the Audubon Association of the Pacific, and has written articles for the Audubon Magazine. She was Nature Study Consultant for the Oakland Girl Scouts and is past-president of the Golden Gate Audubon Society.

Her avocation turned into her vocation when, after she gave a lecture before the Woman's Athletic Club of Oakland, she was requested to lecture by the University of California. Since then she has photographed, compiled and edited six color motion picture programs. It is one of these that she will show here under the auspices of the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society.

This film, Garden Sanctuary, shows how the advent of man changes animal and plant life in the areas with which he comes in contact. Her pictures of all types of California gardens tell us that she loves them. Mrs. Reynolds is no stranger to Peninsula audiences as she has appeared here before.

2 Year's Building Money Allocated To Woods: Others Go Begging

River this year. A board member suggested that a population shift next year might suggest two classrooms at River instead of four at Woods. The north of Ocean Avenue area is "reaching the saturation point, whereas River is a new area being built up." This point had not been disposed of when the board decided to go along with Handley on his two-year four classroom at Woods project.

POETRY CONTEST

A poetry contest has been announced by Kate Rennie Archer of the Poetry Workshop, 1515 Gough Street, San Francisco. The subject is Refrain for Living and the closing date is December 15, 1954. The first prize is $10.00, the second, $5.00.

Sponsors for the contest, which is in memory of Mrs. Linda Russ, are Virginia Russ and Kay DeBard Hall.

Horsemen Plan Parties

Members of the Carmel Valley Horsemen's Association represented their group in Santa Cruz on Saturday, when the annual Inter-club dinner dance was held at the Riverside Hotel.

The Association, which held its regular meeting recently at Holman's Guest Ranch, is also planning its annual Christmas Party. The date for the event is December 18, with the dinner and dance to take place at the Carousel.

Bill Barker, president of the Valley horsemen, also announced that the association's parade group placed first in the recent Firemen's Parade in Monterey.

New junior members admitted into the organization are Ned Thomas and Donald Coleman. Refreshments were served by Sally Pompper and Eunice Ostrander.

Spauldings Return

Might get some early snow reports from Dr. and Mrs. C. Arthur Spaulding, Jr., who'll be back this weekend from a trip across the Sierra. The Spauldings have been enjoying a brief vacation in Nevada.

They Forgot To Tell Margot She Is An Exhibiting Artist

Sweet fame, often shy of pursuit, may sometimes come unbidden to an artist when least expected. Or so it seems to attractive Margot Campbell of Carmel, who recently graduated from the art department of the University of California.

Margot, who paints strictly as a hobby, has never exhibited her work in a gallery, here or elsewhere, though friends have had a chance to see her abstractions at informal parties and gatherings. So it came as a shock when an acquaintance, brandishing last week's Pine Cone, ran up to congratulate her on the news that one of her works was being shown at the Forum Gallery in New York.

The Pine Cone had received the story from the University of California, which sent 27 works by students and grads east for the exhibit, but had somehow neglected to inform the artists of their good fortune.

Margot, who came into the Pine Cone office to confirm the story, isn't even certain which of her paintings or etchings is in the show. But she's contacted friends in New York to send her clippings of any reviews which might appear in the metropolitan papers. "I don't care whether or not they like my work," she says happily. "I'd just like to see if they actually noticed it!"

D.A.R. Meeting Tuesday

The November meeting of Commodore Sloat Chapter, D.A.R., will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. C. V. O. Terwilliger on Shafter Way. Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. Fenton Grigsby, Mrs. Samuel B. Moore and Mrs. Charles Rawlins.

Speaker will be Brayton Withereil, who will exhibit antiques and pewters dating from the revolution in line with the program subject, the D.A.R. Museum in Washington, D.C.

Those planning to attend the meeting are asked to call Mrs. Moore at 7-4066.

Conservation On The March

A Weekly Column by
C. Edward Graves
Western Representative,
National Parks Association

If there is any one national issue that should be handled in a bipartisan way, it is conservation of our national resources. The whole history of the movement is bi-partisan.

The first park to be set aside from the public lands for the enjoyment of future generations was Yosemite. Abraham Lincoln, a Republican, signed this Act. The first forest reserve, as the national forests were originally called, was set aside in 1891 by President Harrison, a Republican. Grover Cleveland, a Democrat, who followed him, was in the words of Gifford Pinchot, one of the best-known Republican conservationists, "the uncompromising friend of Forestry from first to last". Theodore Roosevelt, a Republican, set aside more public lands for the national parks and forests than any other president. Woodrow Wilson, a Democrat, signed the National Park Service Act of 1916, on which our present policy of "unimpairment" is based.

And so the record runs. There is no sharp dividing line political-ly between conservationists and non-conservationists. It was to be expected therefore that the present Republican Administration would continue the policies that have been developed in the past. When backward tendencies began to be discerned, coming to a climax last December in Secretary Mc Kay's recommendation that Echo Park Dam should be made a part of the Colorado River Storage Project, many conservationists who had heretofore kept their allegiance to the Republican Party began to raise serious questions as to their future course of action.

The one election campaign which could be said to offer voters a chance to express their views on Secretary McKay's activities was that of Richard Neuberger versus Senator Cordon in Oregon. Of this campaign Time Magazine said on (Continued on Page Eleven)

County Symphony Orchestra Shows New Vitality Under New Conductor

By EBEN WHITTLESEY

A "new" Monterey County Symphony Orchestra made its first appearance in Sunset Auditorium Tuesday night under a new conductor, Gregory Millar, of San Francisco, before a "new" audience. The performance, from the standpoint of over-all quality and smoothness, far outstripped anything the orchestra has done in the past. Mr. Millar has already achieved the type of success with our orchestra which has made him widely known for work with orchestral groups in the San Francisco area. There was reason to hope for a marked improvement, but the achievement exceeded the expectations of most observers.

The audience came very close to being a full house, certainly the best audience the orchestra has had in its existence. The printed program listed about three times as many season ticket subscribers as in any prior year. Credit for this must go largely to certain hardworking members of the Symphony Association, spearheaded by President Fritz Wurzman and Mrs. James Cooke.

In general the performers were the same group who have worked faithfully with the orchestra for some time, but a new vitality infused their efforts. Walter Kelsey as concert-master did an excellent job. His violins are sufficiently numerous, but their output of sound leaves a little to be desired.

Choice of program material was excellent, particularly calculated not only to make the most of the orchestra's best instrumentalists, but also to provide a wider audience appeal than has been the case in former years. There was something for everyone. Best of all, there was nothing really over the heads of either orchestra or audience. Lusty applause proved the wisdom of the conductor in his choices.

One fairly critical observer expressed a general reaction when she asked me "Is this really the same orchestra?"

Opening with the colorful Outdoor Overture by Aaron Copland, the orchestra seemed to burst with vitality and well-controlled enthusiasm. A brisk tempo and a feeling of purposeful motion set the keynote for the evening.

Mozart's Symphony No. 39, the first of the composer's last great trilogy, opened effectively with the feeling of urgency and excitement that marks a good performance. The violins were somewhat lacking in power, but their quality was generally good, and their leadership strong. In the slow movement the strings kept a fine singing quality, and there was no feeling of drag.

Prokofiev's Lieutenant Kije provided a brilliant piece of musical whimsy enriched with fine instrumental solos and paced by an enormous bass drum. Woodwinds, snare drum and harp all added bright splashes of color. A haunting little theme on the trumpet lingers in the mind from this work.

After the intermission, Samuel Barber's Adagio for Strings was given a smooth performance, though the music itself is not particularly significant. The program

Russ Fahland, Bruce Robertson, Steve Salmon, Ralph Freeto, Gerson Simon and Eugene Soules as the cynical, fast-talking gentlemen of the press.

The set, depicting with grimy authenticity the press room of Chicago's Criminal Courts Building in the 'twenties, is masterfully done, and the entire production is staged with great energy and verve. On the basis of the reception accorded The Front Page, the Fort Ord Little Theater (with a huge reservoir of talent to draw from) should be worthy addition to the Peninsula's roster of first-class amateur theaters.

Concluding performances of The Front Page will take place tonight, tomorrow and Sunday evenings at 8:15 o'clock; admission is free to post personnel and their guests. The Little Theater is located in Building 2286 at Fort Ord.

closed with a very effective interpretation of the Carmen Suite No. 1. The familiar toreador music was full of verve and the freshness which a good conductor can give to the most trite program material. As an encore the dashing finale of this work was repeated with good effect. We should look forward to a very interesting season.

Lusty Production Of Front Page At Fort Ord Theatre

By Virginia Shaw

For those who like theater straight, strong and boisterously hilarious, Fort Ord Special Service is inaugurating its new Little Theater with a rousing production of The Front Page, Ben Hecht's and Charles MacArthur's profanely sentimental tribute to Chicago's fourth estate.

Competently directed by David Sachs and produced by Louie Cutelli, The Front Page features a large and generally excellent cast headed by Bill Marsterson as the ace reporter Hildy Johnson, and Eugene Blank as his hardboiled managing editor, Walter Burns. Feminine leads are ably handled by pretty Myrtlerose Craig as Hildy's neglected sweetheart and Peggy Cease as the softhearted prostitute, Molly Malloy. Carrie Caywood is very funny as the bewildered Mrs. Grant, while the remaining distaff roles are filled by Kal Selet as Jennie and Ruth Kilbourne as Mrs. Schlosser.

Other standouts in the all-military male cast are Lynn Ludlow as the lamebrained sheriff, Ronald Gallegos as the ward-healing mayor, Harry J. Klekas as the flashy hood, Diamond Louis, Art Knight as the unhappy anarchist, Barre Phillips as the rabbit-writer and Lennart Ivarson as the dumb cop with the wonderful name of Woodenshoes Elchorn. Producer Cutelli puts a high polish on low comedy as the antiseptic reporter, Bensinger, while a fusillade of loaded lines are discharged by

New sprayer fights cable-boring beetles. Astounding as it may seem, there's a kind of beetle that can eat right through the lead cover of a telephone cable. The beetle's so tiny it's hard to see. But the hole it leaves can let harmful moisture inside a cable. To prevent this, telephone people use a special repellent, which used to be brushed on cables entirely by hand. But the new sprayer—pulled by a man on the ground—puts the repellent on three times faster. By saving valuable time, this cuts the cost of guarding cables. So it's a big help in bringing you good telephone service that's high in value and low in price. Pacific Telephone works to make your telephone a bigger value every day.

Escape, One Of Forest Theater Guild's Best

By ROSALIND WALL

One of the best productions we have seen on the Peninsula in many a year is John Galsworthy's Escape, playing week-ends at the Forest Theater's tiny little theater work-shop under the stage. Although the performance was by no means flawless it achieved something much more important than a slick, polished surface effect—and that was convincingness. Largely due to the talent of Allan Foulkes, who starred as Captain Matt Denant, the escaped prisoner from Dartmoor, one often forgot that one was watching a play or that the people in it were mere performers. It seemed quite real; and one had the feeling, at least a good part of the time, that what was happening on the stage was actually happening to real people.

Allan Foulkes brought to his role a directness and simplicity which made it impossible to imagine that he was anyone else except Captain Denant; in other words, his art lay in the fact that he did not seem to be acting at all and yet he was so wholly concentrated as to achieve what is seldom accomplished by the very best professional actors—a seemingly unconscious living of the role.

He was supported by an excellent cast; and a great deal of credit goes to Director Cole Weston who managed to bring to this play (which consists of a series of episodes in which brand-new sets of characters are continually introduced) a definite continuity. Although Captain Denant was present in every scene to hold the play together, it would have been easy to miss capturing real continuity, and to have each episode emerge as a colored bit in a disconnected patch-work quilt.

We were also impressed by the fact that with few exceptions everyone achieved an English accent that sounded authentically English, including the so difficult Cockney.

Outstanding among the performers was Helen Weston, who played The Girl in episode one, where Captain Denant, defending a prostitute, accidentally kills a policeman. Grace Carol Kearney, too, stood out as The Wife in Episode VI, very tweedy, pretty and spirited. But with a cast of such proportions it is useless to attempt to describe each player. All of them were good; nobody muffed lines or lost touch with the spirit of the thing. The cast included James Chesters, Walter Bernard, M. Alexander, John Plum, Milton Dixon, Johnny Priestley, Gisela Stroepe, Joan McKinney, Morrison Defty, Jean Stone, Billie Masten, Bill Kallerup, Jim Hare, Edgar Pye, George Spelvin, Ric Masten, Jean T. McKinney, Kathy Kollmer, John Kidwell, Alec Merivale and Jack James.

The play, which is styled a comedy drama, is just that: very dramatic and also very amusing. Several of the scenes, particularly Episode IV in which the prisoner is accosted by an Old Gentleman (Morrison Defty), Episode V in which he approaches and steals a car from a party of picnickers, and Episode VII in which Ric Masten appears as a very Scotch foxhunter, are perfect little comedy vignettes in themselves.

The only criticism we have to offer is that the performers were rather inaudible during the first part of the play; but evidently someone spoke to them about it during the intermission for afterwards everyone, in this tiny theater, whose seating capacity is only 70, could hear the merest whisper.

The costumes were excellent (Hazel McLellan), and so were the sets (Suzanne Armstrong).

The play will have its final performances this week-end.

The Time Has Come .

By Kippy Stuart

Roses are queer plants, that is, in this locality. Early last summer I was away on a trip when roses needed their first spraying. The result of this neglect doomed all my roses, some more than others. One Paul Scarlet climber was so badly damaged with mildew and vermin that I had the entire bush cut to the ground, intending to dig it up and discard. I forgot all about this rose bush, and what to my wondering eyes should I behold recently, but the completely restored bush, perfect in leaf texture, and blooming! This bush that was so drastically cut is far better than any others that have had recent care and attention.

This does not mean that I am going around cutting all my rose bushes to the ground, but it does tell me this: a rose that is badly damaged should be pruned, even in the off-pruning season. My golden emblem rose is now bursting with buds, and this proves that the golden emblem is one of our hardiest. I have tried Herbert Hoover several times, only to become so discouraged that I took it out of the garden. A new rose called Mojave has given good results. This flower is supposed to picture the desert surprise, and I must say that its color is all of that.

Color in the winter garden is easy to achieve here. Nemesia is one of the brightest and easiest to cultivate. One trick with nemesia is to keep the plants even and not allow one or two taller tips to rise above the others. If nemesia is not clipped it tends to grow in a scattered fashion, and if clipped, the result is a compact mass of multi-colored plants.

Stock and snapdragons are the old winter standbys and it is a good time to plant sweetpeas for Spring blooming. If you want prize sweetpea flowers, keep only one stalk on each plant. Clip all lateral branches and allow only one stem to mature. In this way you may expect lush flowers, five and six on each stem, larger than any other sweetpeas you have ever seen.

Pruning season is with us and all shrubs and trees can be safely cut back now. In pruning shrubs that are thickly grown together, do not cut from the outer tips; take one branch from the center of bush and sever at the very base of plant. Several branches can be removed in this way, permitting air and sun to reach the center of shrub.

Beware of trying to prune fruit trees by yourself. Fruit trees are touchy things and what is good for an apple tree is death for apricot or peach. Each fruit tree has a different pattern of pruning, and it will resent improper pruning by refusing to bear fruit.

Why not plant a tree or two at this season? The live Christmas trees are so lovely. A potted fir can be set in the patio all the year and then brought into the house, a living Christmas tree to cheer you by staying alive instead of shattering its wealth all over the place.

"Our dryer really gets a workout...yet it costs so little to run!"

says Mrs. Barrett Coates, Jr., 28 Plaza Drive, Berkeley, California (shown here with her daughters, Holly, Robin and Laurel and baby son, John).

"With three active girls and a baby boy to keep in clean clothes—I do a washing as often as three or four times a day. So this automatic dryer has really been a lifesaver! It's been on the go steadily since we got it, over a year ago. Yet it runs so economically, I've hardly noticed the difference in our P. G. and E. bills!"

Like Mrs. Coates, homemakers throughout California are discovering the work-saving convenience of the modern, automatic clothes dryer. And a dryer costs so little to operate, thanks to low P. Louis Has a Party

Louis Frizzell, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Frizzell, had his seventh birthday on Saturday and celebrated the occasion by inviting 16 of his young friends for a party and a special treat.

The treat consisted of a trip over to Pacific Grove to watch the colorful Butterfly Parade, which only a few of the children had seen before. Assisting Mrs. Frizzell in the transport of the troop of enthusiastic youngsters were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kvenild and their young son Bobo, who attended the party as a sort of spectator.

Following the parade, the party returned to the Frizzell home for a big outdoor birthday luncheon capped off by a "cowboy cake"—a picturesque confection complete with corral, horse, wrangler and chocolate "dirt."

Louis' guests were Polly Campbell, Martha Bennett, Denny McNeill, Larry Thompson, David Dixon, Elliott Williams, Pamela Redhead, Robin Kvenild, Donald Briggs, Allen and Linda Frizzell, Bill Brando, Betty Haak, Susan Draper, Lindsay Jeffers and Bobbie Thompson.

Here Today, Gone Tomorrow

Mr. and Mrs. Lance Detroit continued their stop-and-go fall vacation last weekend with a drive to Yosemite via the Mother Lode country, Sonora and Columbia, reporting the fall color quite beautiful.

Week before last, the Detroit returned from a fortnight-plus tour around Northern California, Oregon, Washington and Vancouver, B.C. And they'll be off again tomorrow—but where, they're not saying.

Strasburgers Add a Girl

A second daughter has been added to the family of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Strasburger, Jr., of Carmel Point. She's named Jacqueline, and arrived last Wednesday at Peninsula Hospital where she weighed in at eight pounds, 14 ounces. She is also the first brunette in a hitherto all-blond family which includes a brother, Ricky, aged four and a half, and a two year old sister, Lee.

Jacqueline's maternal grandmother is Mrs. Frank Solomon, who moved to Carmel from England several years ago. Her paternal grandmother is Mrs. Mary Strasburger of Los Angeles, who'll be up over Thanksgiving to meet the baby. A former Carmelite, Mrs. Strasburger has decided to return here to make her permanent home. She already has a house here, and plans to make her move sometime within the next month or two.

Granddaughter for the Moores

Last weekend found Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul Moore in Sacramento, where they delightedly made the acquaintance of their two-weeks-old grandchild. The new member of the family is a nine-pound baby girl, and she's the first child for the John P. Moores, who've named her Carolyn. Mr. Moore is art teacher at Sacramento High School.

Carolyn is the second granddaughter for the Paul Moores—their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Houghton of Carmel, also have a little girl, nine-months-old Jill. The Moores and the Houghtons plan to drive up to Sacramento together this coming weekend for another reunion with the newcomer and her parents.

Several Surprises for Carla

Carla Budd arrived home from her music lesson last Wednesday evening to find seven of her Sunset School friends gathered in the family rumpus room for a surprise party celebrating her thirteenth birthday.

A further surprise arrived with the birthday dinner prepared by Carla's mother, Mrs. Paul Budd, and which consisted of chop suey followed by ice cream and cake—a gastronomic meeting of east and west which met with the enthusiastic approval of the guests. The exotic character of the meal might also have reminded Carla of her first home, the Hawaiian Islands, where she was born just before the outbreak of the war with Japan.

Still another surprise came with dessert, when a group of young men in the neighborhood unexpectedly dropped by to offer their birthday wishes—their arrival miraculously coinciding with that of the ice cream and cake. The latecomers remained on hand for dancing and games, which concluded the successful party.

In on the surprise dinner for Carla were her girl friends—Polly Gann, Lynne Campbell, Wendy Burnham, Susan Mosolf, Wendy Draper, Janet Fehring, and Suzanne Belvail.

Nancy Bacon Engaged

It'll be a February wedding at All Saints' Church for Nancy Bacon of Carmel and Earl E. R. Jones of Berkeley, whose engagement has been announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce J. Bacon.

A graduate of Carmel High and Stephens College, Nancy is the sister of Mrs. George Barnes (Beverly Bacon) of McMinnville, Oregon, and Mrs. K. Wade Hartley (Pat Bacon) of Belville, Michigan. Nancy is now at Mills College, where she is in her junior year.

Earl, the son of Mrs. Julita G. Jones of Berkeley, received his degree in mechanical engineering from the University of California, and is now a lecturer in the engineering department at U.C. and assistant head of the university's engineering extension. A Navy veteran, he served 17 months' sea duty in the South Pacific.

Following the wedding, the couple plan to make their home in Berkeley.

League Study Groups Meet

League of Women Voters will hold two open study meetings next week for discussion of their local study item, "The inter-relationship of services of city and county, with special emphasis on facilities for dealing with juvenile problems."

The first meeting will be held Monday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Howard Reed in Monterey, the second Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock at the home of Miss Orre Haseltine in Carmel Valley. Panel members will be Mrs. Donald McKenzie, Jr., chairman, and Mrs. B. W. White and Mrs. Michael Antoncich.

The panel will include specific discussion of the juvenile problem on the Monterey Peninsula, and reports on a list of 12 questions submitted to local police chiefs and the county sheriff's office.

The study meetings are open to the public.

Four-Cylinder Excursion

A brave little cavalcade of sports cars, complete with drivers, navigators, kids, dogs and assorted friends and guests, will set off tomorrow noon on a weekend trek down to Three Rivers, near Sequoia National Park.

It's the first two-day event "en famille" to be attempted by the Pebble Beach Sports Car Club, and promises to be a fun run—providing, that is, that it doesn't rain. The 16 or more cars will travel in a group as much as possible, using interesting secondary roads rather than the fast but dull highways. The group will stop overnight at Three Rivers, where a banquet has been planned for Saturday night; hardy souls may even try a dip in the icy river water. Travel will resume following breakfast Sunday morning, with the trip home to include a tour through Sequoia.

Planning to participate in the excursion are sports car enthusiasts Mr. and Mrs. Derek Rayne, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kreisler, Mr. and Mrs. Fraser Sibbald (plus son and friend), Mr. and Mrs. Ed Leslie and three children, Mr. and Mrs. Art Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Riolo, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wellborn, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Rose (plus two of their three sons), Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Kearns and son, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Davison, Mr. and Mrs. Will Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Baird, Lee Harbick, Lyn Grover, and a bachelor contingent of Jimmy Gordon, Chuck Pattison, Bill Kappy and Thad Killar.

Cook's Tour of Culinary Arts

The book section of the Carmel Woman's Club will get some expert pointers on the culinary arts Monday, when the guest speaker for its 2:00 o'clock program will be Marguerite Gilbert McCarthy reviewing her new cookbook, The Queen is in the Kitchen.

Mrs. McCarthy, a Carmel resident, already has two other cookbooks to her credit: The Cook is in the Parlor and Aunt Ella's Cook Book. The new book, written on the premise that the old-fashioned cook has virtually vanished to be replaced by the all-around homemaker, gives ninety-six menus of informal meals of all kinds and contains 500 new recipes.

Mrs. C. V. O. Terwilliger will preside at the meeting. Tea will be served by Mrs. Jesse Small and her committee.

Lindsay-Oliver Back from East

Musician and painter Mary Lindsay-Oliver has returned from the east and a summer fulfilling painting commissions at her studio in Washington, D.C.

Included in Miss Lindsay-Oliver's summer work was the restoration of a valuable Sully portrait and a bit of artistic scene-setting—she was asked to paint a Scotch background for a portrait of the late Peter Marshall, former Senate chaplain, since the portraitist had never seen Scotland and could not visualize the proper atmosphere.

Peter the Third

Peter Leo Meyer, III, is the fine family name bestowed on their new son by Mr. and Mrs. Leo C. Meyer of Carmel. Peter Leo III arrived Friday at Peninsula Community Hospital.

Mrs. Stewart, R. J. Miller Wed

Two residents of the country club, the former Marjorie B. Stewart and Robert J. Miller, stole a four-day march on their friends by quietly having their "Saturday" wedding on Wednesday, November 3, at All Saints' Church.

The 1:00 o'clock ceremony was something of an occasion for the Rev. Angus Dun as well as for the bridal pair. It was the first wedding performed by Mr. Dun since he recently assumed the pastorate of All Saints'.

Attendants for the couple were Mrs. Stewart's daughter and son-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Forestelle of Del Rey Oaks. On Saturday, following the Millers' return from a brief honeymoon in San Francisco, they were joined by the bride's two other daughters and their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Crowell of Oxnard and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Brown of San Jose, who helped greet guests invited to an informal reception at their country club home.

Prior to the wedding, Mrs. Miller was honored at parties given by Mrs. James B. Finley and Mrs. George Walker.

The Millers are now eagerly awaiting completion of their new home on Coral Drive, which will be ready for occupancy shortly after the first of the year.

Birthday for Mr. Dibble

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Abernethy entertained a small group of friends for cocktails at their home and dinner at the country club Sunday evening. Honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Dibble, the occasion being Mr. Dibble's birthday.

The Abernethys recently returned from a two-week vacation in Ojai Valley and Santa Barbara, where they visited Mr. Abernethy's sister, Miss Carey Abernethy. He also found ample time to brush up his golf over the fine Montecito course.

Huttons Have a Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hutton of Rancho San Carlos in Carmel Valley have put their two first names together and come up with Allene Ann as the label for their new daughter, who was born last Saturday at Peninsula Community Hospital.

Gen. and Mrs. Haynes Entertain

Major General and Mrs. Caleb V. Haynes entertained a group of 35 of their Carmel and Pebble Beach friends at a cocktail party and buffet Sunday evening in their home on Carmelo Street.

The Haynes have been in Carmel just over a year, having moved here from Texas following the general's retirement from his Air Force career. On Sunday, friends had a chance to see the results of the extensive remodeling and gardening the couple have done in and around their "Old Carmel" home.

The Crisps Are Three

Mr. and Mrs. Noel Crisp, who live at Ocean Avenue and Casanova, welcomed their first child at precisely 3:06 o'clock Saturday morning at Community Hospital.

The new member of the family is a boy, and weighed in at six pounds. His parents have named him Jeffrey James. The baby is the first grandchild for Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Marsden of Los Angeles, sixth for the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Crisp. Mrs. Marsden is here with the family now, and Mr. Crisp was able to see his new grandson briefly during a weekend visit.

James Jeffrey is not the only baby in the Crisp household, however. They also have a seven-weeks-old dachshund puppy named Mr. Schmaltz, and, says Mrs. Crisp, "I sometimes can't tell which one of them is crying."

High School Style Show

Eight Carmel High students have been chosen to act as models for the "Hi-Style" fashion show to be given tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at the Monterey USO.

The Carmel girls are Robin Burnham, Sandra Smith, Linda Teague, Kay Jones, Tina Bunez, Lacy Williams, Leslie Geyer and Sharon Meyer. Twenty-five additional models, representing the Peninsula's four other high schools, will also participate in the showing of clothes for all occasions for high schoolers.

The fashion show is being sponsored by the Mother Goose Chapter of the Children's Home Society. Proceeds will help in the society's work in the field of child adoptions. In addition to the style show, there will be door prizes and refreshments and, as an extra added attraction, a magic show by Harry Blackstone, Jr.

Parents Have a Fling

The parents rather than the children will have their fun tomorrow night, when the Carmel Parents Nursery School gives its annual get-acquainted party for new members.

Past members of the nursery school who would like to join the fun will also be welcomed for the party, which will take place at 8:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Vial. There'll be dancing, refreshments, and a relaxed good time for all.

CHURCHES

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The spiritual basis for healthful, happy, abundant living will be dealt with at Christian Science services Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Mortals and Immortals" is the Golden Text from John (3: 6): "That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit."

Selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy include the following (76:22-26): "The sinless joy,—the perfect harmony and immortality of Life, possessing unlimited divine beauty and goodness without a single bodily pleasure or pain,—constitutes the only veritable, indestructible man, whose being is spiritual."

From the Bible the following passage will be among those read (Romans 8:6): "For to be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace."

Sport Notes —

ior varsity win was a real team effort with every player doing a fine football job. A stalwart defensive aggregation of Joe Mason, Craven Ross, Syd Trevvett, Tony Weaver, Paul Prince, Mervyn Sutton, Ron Huffman, Charley Dawson, Leo Forster, Jim Konrad, and Bob Wise did a solid job of holding the extremely fast Gonzales attack. The crisp line blocking of Neil Giarratana, Pat Selfridge, Dave Gray, Bob Leidig, and Paul Prince cleared the way for the steady offense engineered by the Padrecitos.

CLEAT MARKS

One of the best junior college football teams in California will show at the MPC stadium tomorrow night when the College of Sequoias from Visalia take on the rampaging Lobos. The Giants from the Land of The Big Redwoods are a power in the interior conference and are favored to halt the current Lobo win streak which has reached two. With Charley Collins healthy again and Bobby Updike putting some running zip in the Lobo split-T, it will take a solid team to handle Tidwell's collegians. . . . Out at the Fort Ord stadium tomorrow afternoon, Harry Hugasian, ex-Stanford great, will lead his Hamilton Field aggregation against the powerful Fort Ord Warriors. Hamilton has a good collection of college, pro, and prep players who are in good physical condition and should give the Warriors their best game since their mismatch with the 49ers. . . . Along about this time of the year it is customary to select outstanding players for all-something or other honors. In the local prep league (B division CCAL), selection of an 11-man squad is a difficult chore as the teams throughout the league were pretty evenly matched and there were few standouts at any of the positions. However, from this corner it appears that the following gridgers have a slight advantage off their consistent performance throughout the season: ends—Chris Costello (Gilroy) and Jerry Bailey (Pacific Grove); tackles—Roy Coghill (King City) and Manuel Miranda (King City); guards—Julian Aguilar (Gilroy) and Ralf Monroe (King City); center—Tom Hoy (Pacific Grove); halfbacks—Tom Fahey (Gilroy) and Don Harvick (Gonzales); fullback—Ron Bernal (King City); quarterback—Eddie Estaban (Pacific Grove). . . . Something new in football banquets was initiated at Carmel High School last night when the players and fathers got together for their annual get together two hours after the final game against Pacific Grove. Awards were given out, speeches were made and next year's predictions were made be-

Conservation . . .

August 23: "The Oregon issue is as clear as mountain air: a victory for Dick Neuberger, the Democratic senatorial candidate, would be a stinging defeat, not just for Senator Guy Cordon, but for McKay and Administration policy."

The result here, in Secretary McKay's home state which has not sent a Democrat to the Senate since 1914, would seem to represent voter disapproval of the present trend in the Republican Administration. It has been impossible up to the present for conservationists to get the personal ear of President Eisenhower. One more effort is to be made next month. Perhaps the Oregon result will provide the necessary magic key.

Conservation should not reverse its direction under any Administration. That conviction prompted the editor of the Pine Cone and your columnist to select "Conservation on the March" as the title of this column.

Mrs. Ella W. Hartt, 81, a former Carmel resident, died Sunday at her home in Los Altos.

Mrs. Hartt and her husband, Wilbur Hartt, made their home here from 1945 to 1950, later moving to Los Altos. She was a native of New York.

In addition to her husband, she leaves a daughter, Katherine Howell of Piedmont; a sister, Mabel W. Smith of Springfield Center, New York; and two grandchildren, Jane and Ann Howell of Piedmont.

Funeral services were held Tuesday in Los Altos.

for the players were cooled out from the final 1954 game. . . . It doesn't pay to have too powerful a football team or you'll run out of opposition by having opponents run out on you. One Man's Family Writer Is Refugee From Smog Belt

I've always felt it was Carleton's show."

Raffetto, a University of California graduate and member of the Little Theater group while on the campus, has played the part of Paul since the script was first broadcast from San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Ware have purchased a home at Dolores and Santa Lucia and expect to move in from their rented cottage after Thanksgiving. One daughter, Corliss Jane or Ciji (as she is called by her family) is in the seventh grade at Sunset School, while another, Joy, is attending the University of Redlands. Their son, Dick, is with the Navy aboard the USS Los Angeles.

Ware and Raffetto exchange completed scripts, each writing five a week for the six-week period. "Sometimes, when things are going tough, it might take as much as a day and a half to finish a script that is to run 15 minutes," he commented.

Even at that, this man finds time for short stories and novels and has had stories published in the Saturday Evening Post, Colliers, American Magazine, Cosmopolitan and others. A novel, Come Fill The Cup, was published by Random House in 1952 and was a Book Club selection. It was later published in a paperback edition by Bantam, and was also made into a movie by Warner Brothers which starred James Cagney. Another novel was The Wonderful Mrs. Ingram.

Now he is well into a book which has Carmel as the setting and he works on it in between his radio writing. He has kindly allowed the Pine Cone to run his description of Carmel from his partially-completed manuscript:

"... I was lost amid the narrow streets, pine fragrance and wood smoke of Carmel-by-the-Sea. 'This is a ye species town of the quaint and costly, placed on a hillside overlooking a half-moon of white beach and a deep blue bay. Dwarf cypress trees against the sky tempt painters as well as those who cannot paint, all of whom exhibit in the local galleries. Along the sheltered curbside streets, most of them unmarked, are cozy cottages, many with studio windows, and scatterings of old-fashioned flowers, and protective walls or hedges, and

Robert Mazza, Jr.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Declin Mazza of Schulte Road, Carmel Valley, died Saturday in a local hospital several hours following his birth. The baby had been named Robert Declin Mazza, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Mazza also have a daughter, Terri Lynn. Paternal grandmother is Mrs. Olive Mazza of Salinas, while the maternal grandmother is Mrs. Edith Hannon of Odessa, Texas.

unpaved driveways. Baskets are woven here, and platters baked. Poems are written here, and Bach performed. Ocean Avenue, the wide east-and-west street, with its arcades and commercialized gentility, swarms with tweedy gentlefolk, sunburned tourists, tanned residents, and man's best friend, the dog. It's a discovered Utopia."

Now that he is "living in the good clean Carmel air" and away from the smog belt, he hopes to begin writing short stories again. He feels that this is a place where he can turn out even more volume than before. In commenting on the smog situation in Southern California he wonders: "Why, as inventive a people as we are, cannot we invent caps for exhaust pipes or whatever else is necessary to solve this pressing problem? Someday we'll wake up and find that 20,000 people are dead from it and then I suppose we'll take action."

Ware was an actor at one time, playing stock through the Middle West, and has also been a newspaperman on such papers as the New Orleans States and Shreveport Times as well as the city news bureau in Chicago.

His good friend is James H. Richardson, city editor of the Los Angeles Examiner, who is the author of the recently published, best-selling story of his newspaper days, For The Life of Me. In Ware's autographed edition, Richardson has written—"It was your idea in the first place."

Oh yes—in between script writing, short stories, novels and moving, this energetic newcomer to our Village still finds time each day for a walk the length of the beach, accompanied by a Collie pup friend.

Unincorp. Fire District Hearing On Nov. 22

Carmel Unincorporated took another step towards its projected fire district Tuesday by submitting to the board of supervisors the names of three men willing and qualified to serve as commissioners of the district.

They are J. O. Handley of Carmel Woods, James D. Lowsley of Carmel Mesa, and Andrew C. Wiemann of the Mission Tract. The three names were proposed in a letter to the supervisors from Captain Archer Allen, president of Carmel Unincorporated.

Hearings on the proposed district will be held November 22 in Salinas. If arguments pro outweigh those contra, the board of supervisors may then formally establish the district and appoint the three men proposed by Carmel Unincorporated as the board of commissioners. The fire commissioners would serve terms of one, two and three years, subsequent terms to be decided by election.

The fire commissioners, once the district is established, would have the power to bond the district, borrow money, and levy a tax rate to cover expenses set forth in the district budget. Estimated tax rate would be approximately $1.40 for the first year and 50c annually thereafter.

Petitions containing 85 signatures of residents of the unincorporated area have already been accepted by the supervisors, as well as the district boundaries. Tentative plans call for a firehouse to be constructed on Highway 1 between Ocean Avenue and Atherton Way.

Carmel Weathers First Fall Storm With No Distress

Carmel weathered the first real rain of the season without any noticeable damage either internally or externally, according to reports from the police department.

As of yesterday, the police had not received even so much as a report of a fallen tree. The records show a few traffic collisions abetted by slippery streets, but nothing serious.

Only inconvenience wrought by the warm, drought-breaking rains appeared to be a power failure early Wednesday night on Mission Street between 12th and 13th streets. Service was restored within two hours of the electric failure; in the interim, families
